STREET SMART

DRIVEN BY TONY QUINN FOUNDATION ROAD SAFETY
DRIVE CHANGE, SAVE LIVES.

ABOUT STREET SMART?

Conceived in collaboration with motorsport legend and road safety advocate Greg Murphy, Street Smart driven by Tony Quinn Foundation Road Safety, is a practical, hands-on young driver training programme that incorporates world-leading best practices in driver learning. Our mission is simple: To reduce road deaths in New Zealand by helping young drivers develop essential safety skills beyond the basics of a standard driving test.

Unlike traditional defensive driving or classroom theory based programmes, Street Smart offers a one day, hands-on, practical experience where young drivers and their parents/guardians participate in activities, guided and coached by professional drivers.
This unique approach helps both the young driver and their guardians assess skills that are crucial to their driving journey.

The programme is held at a number of safe and controlled environments around the country with participants, under the guidance of trained coaches, engaging in real-world driving scenarios to enhance their skills. The goal is for young drivers to leave the programme as a safer and more aware driver but most importantly being able to learn by doing and be able to take charge of their driving future.

COST & BOOKING INFO

The Street Smart programme has been heavily subsidised by the likes of the Tony Quinn Foundation Road Safety, and a number of other like-minded partners, meaning attendees (and their parent / guardian) will only pay $149 (total) to attend.
